Against the firm of Roelle, Junker & Co there are four indictments, charging that the firm has defrauded the government at various times out of taxes on liquors amounting in all to about 2,411 800 gallons. These frauds all occurred within a year. Goulsen, Eastman & Co. are charged with evading taxes by cancelling stamps and other means defrauding the government of the tax on 42 000 gals. LONDON, Nov 8.—The Mark Lane Express in its weekly review of the British corn trade has the following: Sowing has been resumed in some places but in most cases the soil has been unfit to receive seed. Russian has been lower in consequence of large shipments in anticipation of ice in Russian rivers and harbors. It is reported Russia has a short crop of wheat and [illegible]. There is consequently firmness of holders at Odessa, and it would seem to be justified. The absence of the usual abundance in America and Russia must eventually tell on our market. In France sowing is near completion. In Paris and throughout the provinces of France as well as Belgium and Holland the markets are unchanged. At Hamburg the market is tending upward. Last quotations are fully maintained at Danzig while in Austria and Hungary prices are lower.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGES IN FRANCE.—Considerable attention has been drawn of late to the various agricultural colleges in this country and the comparatively small percentage of pupils in them who devote themselves after graduation to agricultural pursuits. The utility of institutions which do not really foster the industry in whose behalf they are established has been questioned with some reason and a discussion has arisen in consequence which is likely to bring out the defects in the institutions we have and possibly make them more generally useful. As bearing on this subject certain statistics have been published relating to the agricultural colleges or farm schools of France, with a view to showing that the difficulty complained of is not confined to this country. There are in France 33 farm schools with 802 pupils and 9,317 graduates. Of these graduates 2,992 have become farmers, owners and cultivators, or renters of farms, 845 have become gardeners, market gardeners or florists, 46 have become drainers, irrigators or makers of drain tiles, 511 farm laborers, cow herds or pig feeders, 5 land surveyors, 16 foresters and game preservers, 29 agricultural accountants, 89 merchants in grain, wine or fertilizers, 33 farm directors, veterinary surgeons, 19 students in agricultural colleges, and 104 belong to other employments connected with agriculture. From these figures it appears that about 44 per cent of the pupils engage in what may fairly be termed agricultural pursuits. Although this proportion may seem much smaller than desirable there is only one college in this country that in Michigan, which makes an equally favorable exhibit.

A VIRGINIA CITY INCIDENT.—The Enterprise of October 7th relates the following pleasing incident:

Yesterday, after the Consolidated Virginia and Ophir works were in full blaze, a gentleman whose residence is east of the Ophir shaft and which residence had been on fire several times, had finally given up that the house must be lost and had ceased further exertion, suddenly he was surprised to see a mountain quail light at his feet. In a moment the bird flew up to his breast and lit on his vest. The man unbuttoned two buttons of his vest, when the bird ran beneath it and nestled close over his heart. He buttoned his coat over the bird and then said, "I think that house may yet be saved," and went to work again. Just then the wind turned and carried the volume of smoke and flame another way. The house was saved, and it now, next to the children, the bird is the most highly prized treasure in that house.

The Jacksonville Times says: The late rains raised the various streams so as to render it for a time almost impossible to cross them. Slate creek in Josephine county was so high on Saturday that the stage was delayed nearly twenty-four hours in making the trip to this place. The stages from the north and south are behind time owing to the bad roads and high waters. The weather has turned off clear again, however, and the mails will doubtless arrive with more regularity.

Ashland has two schools in successful operation. The academy has an attendance of about 150 which is daily increasing, while the same may be said of the district school.

LOSS OF THE STR. PACIFIC!

Foundered Off Cape Flattery.

Full Particulars of the Disaster

One Survivor Picked Up.

All the Crew and Passengers Supposed to be Lost.

Twenty Ladies Drowned in One Boat.

Conflicting Theories as to the Cause of the Disaster.

The Surviving Passenger Claims that the ship Collided with a Sailing Vessel.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SEATTLE, Nov 7.—The Daily Dispatch received the following special from Port Townsend this morning:

The American ship Messenger, Capt J F Gilkey, arrived nine days from San Francisco, and reports picking up a part of the pilot house twenty miles south of Cape Flattery and Henry L. Jilley, the only survivor of the steamship Pacific, which sailed from Victoria at 9 o'clock on Thursday morning, and foundered forty miles west of Flattery on Thursday evening. Mr Jelly floated on the pilot house from 8 o'clock on Thursday night until 10 o'clock on Saturday morning, when he was picked up by the Messenger. Several boats were launched, but all foundered.

A F. LEARNED.

Mr Jelley is too low to give full particulars. He states he was in a boat which swamped and, with another man, succeeded in reaching part of the pilot-house. The other man subsequently died from exposure and was cut loose by Mr Jelley. Following is a list of her passengers, fourteen of the first ones mentioned, together with ten or twelve in the steerage, being from Puget Sound and the balance from Victoria: J Helmuth and wife, Mrs Mahon and child, H C Victor, G T Vining, Fred D Hard, C B Davidson and wife, A Robbins, T Allison, D McPherson, Wm Maxwell, B Woods, John Tarbell, Wm Ammiss, M Wilson, Wm Purdary, A Long, John G Todd, J McLanders, Dock Young, J Fitzgerald, J Condon, C Chisholm, A Frazer, J S Webster, Hurlburt & Rockwell troupe, F Gareshe, Miss A Reynolds, Miss F Palmer, Mrs Moote, Mrs. Lawson, James Lennings, Mrs S Styles and child, D C McIntyre, C B Fairbanks, Capt and Mrs Parsons, A B Oaway, W J Ferry, J F Johnston, Thos Smith, John Cochrane, S P Moody, T J Ferrell, M Summers, J Cahill, John Watson, Wm. Waldron, John Lee, G Gribbell, Geo Morton, John McCormick, John Sampson, Isaac Webb, P. L Chapman, and 40 more in the steerage.

LATEST!

PORT TOWNSEND, Nov 8.—Henry F. Jelley, who is supposed to be the sole survivor of the steamship Pacific, was brought into this port yesterday by the ship Messenger, Capt Gilkey. He was in a wretched plight, his knees being terribly lacerated and bruised in his efforts to keep on the raft for the 36 hours before being picked up. Mr Jelley says the Pacific came in contact with another vessel, and that he saw the lights, but in his interviews with Capt. Gilkey lasting twelve hours he made no mention of seeing the lights of a vessel, and some think he is laboring under a hallucination in that matter. Capt Scammon, of the revenue marine, and Capt N T Oliver, pilot, think it is more likely she struck a sunken rock, as no sailing vessel ought to have been so near the American shore. Mr Jelly says the concussion was little more than that felt by a heavy sea striking the side of the vessel, so that there was not any confusion or terror exhibited by the passengers, and that if the boats could have been launched and properly manned and the sailing comparatively smooth all would have been saved. He was taken charge of here by Dr T T Minor, U S marine surgeon, and to-day sent over to Victoria. This is the Statement of Henry F. Jelley:

My name is Henry Frederick Jelley. I am a native of Ireland, but have lived for the last nine years in the Dominion of Canada, and am of the age of 22 years. I took cabin passage on board the steamship Pacific, of which J D Howell was master, on the morning of Thursday the 4th inst, for a voyage to San Francisco, Cal., and on the same morning at about 9 15 the steamer left the harbor of Victoria B C.

There were about 200 people on board, more or less, and we steamed all that day against a head wind blowing from the southeast fresh.

During the day the crew were constantly pumping water into the boats to keep the steamship on an even keel, first on one side and then on the other, and she would list to either side alternately. As I noticed the boats abaft the paddle-boxes had no oars in them on either side but the forward boats had oars in them. Between 8 and 9 o'clock that evening, and while I was in the cabin in bed, I heard a crash and felt a shock as if we had struck a rock or something of the kind, and heard something fall as if a lot of rocks had broken into and fallen in her starboard bow, and immediately heard the bell strike to stop her, and then to back her, and then strike to go ahead. I went on deck and there heard voices forward say, "It is all right, we have only struck a vessel," and looking around I saw several lights some distance off on our starboard beam. I think there were three lights, but I do not think they were colored lights, but did not pay much attention to them. I went back into the cabin and was about to turn in when I noticed her taking a heavy list to port and then thought she was going down and went on deck. I heard some one say she is making water very fast forward. Went forward to the pilot house and there heard the purser ask the captain what boat he would take charge of. Did not hear the answer. I asked the captain if there were no blue lights or a gun. He told me I would find blue lights in the pilot house. The captain was at that time coming out of his own room and did not see him after that. I then, with another man whom I did not know, went into the pilot house, found six blue lights and set five of them off, lost the other one. I then noticed that the engines were still working, but no one was at the wheel. I then went on deck to the starboard side, forward the paddle box, where a number of men were trying to get the long boat out, but they could not do it. I then went to see about the port boat forward and helped five or six ladies into it and tried to get the boat off, but we could not budge the boat. There were about twenty ladies in that boat. I there heard it said that the two boats abaft the wheels had gotten off but did not see them. The boat I was near was partly full of water and we could not get her off at all. I think it was about an hour from the time the steamer struck up to the time when she listed to port so much that the port boat was put into the water and cut loose from the davits. I was in this boat, which, when it got into the water began to fill and turned over. I crawled up on the bottom of the boat and helped several others up with me. Immediately after the steamer seemed to break in two, fore and aft, and one half the smoke stack fell to port and the smoke stack struck our boat and pushed it away and the steamship Pacific sunk. I think about all the ladies were in our boat, and when she upset they all fell into the water and I fear they were drowned. This was about 10 in the evening. The night was not dark nor was the sea very rough, but there was a fresh breeze. I afterwards left the bottom of our boat and with another man climbed on the top of the pilot house, which was floating near, and we held on the top, or wire that came out of the top. Next morning I got some life preservers floating near the house and with their ropes, lashed myself and my comrade on to the house. I saw three rafts. The first one had one man on, the next had three men and a woman, and the other I could not make out for the distance, except that there were human beings on it.

I think we were thirty or forty miles south of the Cape when the vessel sunk. We passed the light on Tatoosh Island between four and five o'clock on the evening of the 4th. I and my comrade were on the top of the pilot house all of the 5th until about 4 o'clock P M, when he died. I then cut him loose. The sea was running very high all day, and I think my comrade was drowned by the waves washing over him, he not being strong enough to hold his head up and the waves constantly washing over us. Soon after he died I sighted a vessel and I called, and also heard the people on the other rafts calling. I did not see the other rafts after that, and that vessel did not come near me. I spent Friday night on my raft. There was little wind until morning, when it came on to blow again, and the sea became very rough. I was then within a mile from the Vancouver shore. I sighted two vessels on the Washington shore, that passed on, and about 10 o'clock A M on the 6th (Saturday) saw a vessel bearing down on me. I was very weak by that time but waived my hat and the vessel sent a boat and took me up. The vessel's name, I learn, is the Messenger, and the captain, whose name is J F Gilkey, gave me every attention and kindness possible and did everything in his power to relieve my wants. (Signed)

HENRY F JELLEY.

More Particulars of the Pacific and Her Crew.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 8.—The Pacific was a wooden side wheel steamer, of about 900 tons, built in 1851 by W H Brown of New York. She was nearly rebuilt here by the Pacific Mail Company two years ago. She was docked and surveyed the trip before the last and given a certificate "A 2." Her value was about $100,000. Her cargo was hops and oats worth about $25 000. Insurance on the ship is $47,500, divided nearly equally amongst Fireman's Fund, Union, State Investment, Commercial, Swiss Lloyds and New Orleans Mutual companies. Capt. Howell had the reputation of an efficient officer. The ship's complement was as follows: Master, J. D Howell; first officer, A N McDonough; second, A. Wells; third, J M Lewis; purser, O Hite, jr; freight clerk, S H. Bigeley; chief engineer, T. Houston; assistant, D M. Bassett; oilers, T Dettrange and J Dugan; carpenter, R Erickson; watchman, Henry Norris; steward, J Martin; second steward, Chas H Jackson; steerage steward, S McNichol; first cook, J M Hollinsworth; second cook, S. Miles; third cook, C H Whiting; baker, Thos Malloy; porter, Robert T. McNemaine; stewardess, Hannah Muir. There were also five firemen, four coal passers, ten seamen, two oilers, two pantry men and eight waiters.

In the absence of further particulars, Capt Goodall, of Goodall, Nelson & Perkins, owners, and many seafaring men, believe the ship met a heavy southeaster which may be expected there at this season. The Pacific was one of the best sea boats on the coast. It is believed that the survivor picked up may be in error as to the fate of other boats, as the steamer was provided with extra large and safe life boats.

HARD TIMES EVERYWHERE

[From the San Francisco Bulletin.]

Some financial statements in a late New York Bulletin show that the hard times and tightness of the money market are not confined to the United States, but affect all the great trading and industrial nations of Europe as well. The banks of France, England, Prussia and Austria, are hoarding their specie. In 1872 these four banks issued on private loans and discounts during the month of September $545 000,000. In 1875 for the same month, their issues on the same account were but $335 000 000, showing a contraction of $150 000,000. The Bulletin thinks the decrease in the Bank of England loans and discounts reflects a severe depression in the trade of that country." This great decrease in loans has been logically attended by a corresponding diminution of the amount of money in circulation. In September, 1872, the specie held in the vaults of the Banks of England, France, Austria, Prussia and Belgium was $482 000 000. In September of the present year it was $678,000,000, showing a withdrawal of $196 000,000 from circulation, or about 28½ per cent of the amount in bank September, 1875.

The New York Journal of Commerce shows a decrease in the imports of general merchandise at that port for the first nine months of $41 500 000, as compared with the imports of the corresponding months of 1874. It says furthermore that the September exports this year disappoint expectation. There is not a lively foreign demand for our breadstuffs at present prices. In September, 1873, New York sent out $26 000,000 worth of produce and merchandise. In 1874 the same month sent off $22 000 000 worth. This year the figures fall to $19 500 000 for the month of September. The imports have fallen from $31 371,000 in September, 1874, to $24 510 000 for the same month this year, the only increase being $208 101 in specie. For the first nine months of 1875 there were $40,170 177 less imports at New York than for the corresponding period of 1873. The figures of customs receipts at that one port for the first nine months of the years 1873, 74, 75 are given as follows:

1873	[illegible]
1874	[illegible]
1875	[illegible]

The falling off of receipts from 1873 to 1875 is over $11,000 000 in the first three quarters of the year. Doubtless there has been a like decline at all other ports of the country. In searching for the causes of this remarkable diminution in trade and contraction of the money market, the first one that arrests attention is the extravagance and over trading of this country two or three years ago, and the second the collapse of so many American railway corporations that had floated their securities by hundreds of millions in the markets of Europe. Nevertheless good American securities are in demand abroad, and always will be. Government bonds are taken in Europe at low rates of interest. There never has been any difficulty in placing good securities abroad. Moreover, it has come to this—that when an American security is now offered in foreign countries it is scrutinized as closely as at home. That which is good here will sell at better rates abroad because interest is lower there than here.

It is too frequently the case that women lay the cause of their failure in working to their sex instead of their own errors and thus they are prevented from making any real progress. They are apt to think that every rebuff they meet with is offered them because they are women, and therefore the natural victims of injustice. It is so much pleasanter to have imaginary enemies than to recognize one's own incapacity for the task undertaken that the delusion is always maintained. In this way women will persist in attributing to personal hostility what is really caused by lack of talent and industry. If a woman fails as a writer, a lecturer or actress a dramatic reader, her indiscreet friends are apt to assume that she fails because she is a woman. But in fact, in these days, her sex helps quite as much as it hinders her in any or all of these pursuits, and the chances are that where she fails a man of the same qualifications would have failed quite as badly. There ought to exist among women and among men also a more courageous spirit in these matters, and at the same time more humility. It was said of Haydon, the painter, that if he had taken as much trouble to paint good pictures as he did to convince the public that he had painted them he would not have died a suicide, on account of his failure. If people are not inclined to value women's work, let them make it of such unquestionable worth that it cannot be resisted.—Exchange.

LETTER FROM OLYMPIA

OLYMPIA, W T, Nov 6, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The great event of the session is over—great expectations have been destroyed—legislators again breathe freely, and woman is still unable to use that most important weapon in this Territory, the ballot box. O tempora! O mores! How long are such important matters to remain in oblivion? I am happy to say, however, that the women are not utterly without friends, as is evident from the fact that the honorable member from Island county states that he is perfectly certain the time must come, sooner or later, when women will be entitled to the elective franchise all over the land, and I say, the sooner the better.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE

House Bill 115 having been made the special order for to-day at 2 P M, quite a large number of ladies were present at that hour in the Legislative halls, together with a considerable number of the sterner sex, to hear the debate on the subject of granting to women the right to vote. His Excellency Governor Terry was also present during the debate, and took his seat on the left of the Speaker. The bill was opened by the member from Cowlitz, Mr LaDu, who read a most ably written essay in opposition to the bill, which was listened to with interest and attention by all present, its delivery occupying about twenty-five minutes.

The Speaker, Mr. Evans, having called Mr Ringer to the chair, took the floor in support of the bill and, after apologizing for his want of preparation on the subject, owing to sickness in his family and other matters, he proceeded in the most business like manner to sweep away every objection made by his opponent to the bill, not leaving him even the ghost of a chance to recover lost ground. The points made by the learned gentleman were innumerable, his eloquence unsurpassed, and had he been defending a prisoner from sentence of death, he could not possibly have used greater efforts than on this occasion. On taking his seat, Mr Evans was greeted with a round of applause, which could hardly be suppressed by the Speaker.

Mr Hughes, the member from King county, addressed the House for some time in opposition to the bill and at the conclusion of his remarks, it was moved and carried that an invitation be extended to any lady or gentleman present to come within the bar and speak on the bill, but unfortunately no one rose immediately, which was taken advantage of by the enemies of the bill and the question on its passage was called for.

The following was the result of the vote: In favor of woman suffrage—Messrs Abrams, Douthit, Grinnell, Lynch, Miller, Newland, Richardson, Ruth, Whitney, Wood, Mr. Speaker—11. Against—Messrs Cooke, Crawford, Foster, Hannah, Hodgis, Hughes, Huntington, Karr, Kelly, LaDu, Ringer, Russell, Shrum, Scott and Wimpy—15. Absent with leave—Messrs Ferguson, Harmon, Harris. Paired—Mr Loyd. So the bill was lost, to the regret of all its friends, and probably the matter of woman suffrage will be over for two years longer, unless Congress does something in the meantime regarding it. The majority against the bill last session was six. This session it will be three, a clear gain of three in two years.

BUSINESS OF THE HOUSE

As the telegraph line broke this evening before my report was received, I have concluded to report to-day's business by mail.

Mr Newland introduced H B 143, authorizing certain persons to withdraw lands from without city limits, referred to committee on corporations.

H B 44, by Mr Douthit, changing the eastern boundary of Clark county; referred to committee on counties.

H B 145, by Mr Scott, act concerning marks and brands in the counties of Klikitat, Yakima, Stevens, Walla Walla and Columbia, passed.

H B 146, Mr Hannah, to prevent the hunting of deer by torchlight, referred to committee on agriculture.

H B 66, defining vagrancy and providing remedy against, passed. This bill will be a death blow to loafers, gamblers, fortune tellers, keepers of houses of ill fame, and all those who have no visible calling or business by which to sustain themselves.

H. B. 122, relating to attorneys and counsellors at law, was taken up and amended by striking out the words "every white male," and substituting "any citizen" in lieu thereof. This bill was passed as amended and may be some slight satisfaction to the women for the loss of H B 115, as it does not debar them from becoming lawyers.

H B 125, to prevent the spread of contagious diseases among domestic animals; H B 126, relating to licenses in Kitsap county, and H B 79, to abolish fees and costs in the probate court of Walla Walla county, were all passed.

H B 59, to regulate the compensation of officers in Klikitat county, was laid on the table.

H B 133, relating to liquor licenses in certain counties, was referred to a select committee.

H B 124, defining county lines in Washington Territory, and H B. 81, authorizing W West to establish a ferry on Chehalis river, were laid on the table subject to further orders.

H J R No 6, relative to the appointment of a joint committee on revision of county laws and C substitute for H. B 9, relating to sale of poisons, were passed.

COUNCIL.

Not having much spare time on hand I am unable to visit the Council as much as I should wish, and have, therefore, to depend upon the reporter for the Echo and the clerks for any information regarding that body. The following bills were introduced to-day: C. B. 47, for the erection of a jail in King county, referred to committee on roads and highways; 48, permitting persons to endow the university and public schools, referred to same; 49, bill for relief of Whitman county; 50, assessing and collecting county and Territorial revenue, passed; 51, relating to district court records, passed; 52, relating to duties of assessors, referred to committee on ways and means. The substitute for H B 48, prescribing the duties and powers of judges in chambers was passed, as were also H. B. 134, for protection of game; H B 74, defining nuisance; H B 44, in relation to counties; H B 130, creating office of commissioner of immigration and providing for printing and distribution of pamphlets; H. B 14, to aid in construction of a wagon road in Klickitat county, lost. H M 11, for improving Dugualla Bay, passed. H J R 5, relative to insane asylum matters, was laid on the table.

WASHINGTON LITERARY SOCIETY.

A society bearing this name was organized this evening, having for its object the intellectual and moral improvement of its members. About fifteen charter members joined, and the following officers were elected to serve for three months: President, C H Ross; vice president, J C McFadden; secretary, A Weir; treasurer, W Bonney; critic, W H Roberts; sergeant-at-arms, James Frazer; editor and associate editor, J Chilberg and Mrs F Bigelow. The subject announced for discussion on next Saturday evening is "Resolved, That woman is entitled to the elective franchise."

"SKOOKUM CONTRIBUTOR."

Under this heading, a number of letters have appeared in the Morning Echo of this city lately, and your reporter has had the misfortune to be accused of having written them. In answer to the charge I need only say that it is entirely false and those who know me best are well aware that I am truthful in my reports and in all cases refrain from wounding the feelings of those with whom I come in contact. I trust that this slander may not be repeated again.

WRECK OF THE PACIFIC

SUNDAY, Nov 7th.

It is with feelings of deep regret that I reopen my letter to refer to the terrible news which reached this city to-day of the loss of the steamer Pacific on her way to San Francisco. The flags of the city have been at half mast since the news arrived and a general feeling of sadness pervades the community. One of the passengers supposed to be lost is Mr Fred Hard, formerly postal agent and a gentleman who was well known and respected in this city. Another passenger, Mr G T Vining, was a most estimable gentleman and well known throughout the Puyallup valley. He leaves a wife and large family, who will have the sympathy of the entire community in their distress. It is generally hoped here that some survivors still remain, but I fear the terrible storm which prevailed on Thursday and Friday must have resulted fatally. The gloom which the sad news has cast over this city is very intense.

REPORTER.

IN THE MATTER OF SPICOTS—REPLY

HILLSBORO, Nov 6, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

It seems that the county administration has turned the Independent's faucet and that organ is dribbling away at the spigot. I should not offer a reply were it not that I am satisfied that the defense was dictated by those that use the organ as a mouthpiece. As much as they may attempt to throw mud, and cover up the truth by jeering and Delano pleas of "devotion and long years of hard labor," the facts remain the same. The chief fugleman says, "All we have to say is, the criticism is true and safe, having been made after the fact was discovered that the bridge at Dairy creek was too rotten to repair." Now the county court knows that the grand jury did condemn that bridge nearly a year ago, if not more, and that that portion of their report was certified to them by order of the circuit judge. This being the fact, as shown by the records, it is telling stories to say it was not known to be rotten until the repairs were attempted. Even up to the last term of the circuit court, the bridge was condemned again by the grand jury, and a recommendation made to build a new one. Now, I prefer to believe a sworn jury rather than the Independent. As a sample of the organ's truthfulness, I refer to this: "In the first place, the board of commissioners had nothing to do with it. Judge Archbold, in order to fix the bridge as quickly as possible, by special authority, acted independently of the rest of the board, and appointed Mr Pittinger a commissioner to examine the bridge." Now, the journal and all all the officers of the court say that the two commissioners were appointed in open court, Mr Pittinger to act with Judge Archbold in that matter. Again, I prefer to believe the court journal and officers to the Independent. As to the assertion that the span across the creek is no loss, I would ask if the county court expects to get workmen to tear the span down, work it over and put it up again for nothing. As to the Painter bridge, I suppose Mr Imbrie will finish that job at precisely the time that it was ordered finished and any intimation that I am finding fault with superintendents, workmen or road supervisors, is an utter falsehood, for they are appointed by the court and the court is responsible for the general policy and the manner of doing the work given them. If the Painter grade is done in a good, substantial manner, and any time before "Gabriel toots his horn," then I am in favor of giving the county board credit. It is also true that the Rock creek bridge leading to Reedville is done, and well done, and the contractor had just $0 left after paying his workmen and bills, if I am correctly informed. But all unite in saying that he did a good job on the bridge, and did more than he agreed to do, which speaks well for the man's honesty as a workman. If statements of the superintendent are true, the court ought to have paid him a small bonus.

I disagree with the court in the idea that the county's finances and public works should be managed like those of a private individual, or as a private individual would manage his private business. For instance, there is Mr. Groundhog Davis. He drives his team with rope tugs and rope back bands, and rope lines, and his mill is not what the world would call modern, and I, as a citizen of the county, object to the county's taking pattern after the ancient Mr. Davis any longer. And herein is the pith and marrow of the whole trouble. Our bridges in a majority of cases are down or ready to tumble down, everything in the county of a public nature bears the marks of a mere makeshift, and looks as though the Davis plan has been strictly followed by the administration; and where they have undertaken to build there has been occupied about three and four times as much time as seemed to be necessary. I, for one, never could see the difference between hiring one man five days and five men one day, so far as the pay for services is concerned, but there is a very material difference in the time and that time is worth dollars to the people when it comes whilst they are moving their products to market. The policy of frittering away so much time when the interests of almost the whole people demand immediate action, is ruinous to any county or State, and tax payers are forced to run a great risk of damage. The Independent says in speaking of the matter of raising people's assessments: "This is on a par with his other blunders. The fact is that no man's assessment was raised less than $125 and the highest was $1 000."

Now let's see if that is true. The following named persons' assessments appear on the assessment roll, as equalized by the county board: A. T. Smith, raised $100; Ingram, S. P. and William, raised $100; Shenghell Vendell $100. Now the Independent has told a willful fib, or hasn't got sense enough to know what he is talking about. We will take, say the assessment of A. T. Smith, and put it at say $125 raise, which at 16½ mills, would be to the county about $2 in tax. Now let's see what it costs: sheriff's fees, to copying notice, two folios at 15 cents, 30 cents; to service of notice, 50 cents; to mileage seven miles, $1 40; returns 25 cents; total sheriff's fees, $2 45. Clerk's fees: to issuing notice, 25 cents; to docketing order for same, 25 cents; to swearing witness 10 cents; to filing sheriff's bill, 15 cents; to entering order of allowance of the same, 10 cents; to drawing order in favor, 15 cents; total clerk's fees $1. The whole sum for the officers would be $3 45 as a loss to gain the sum of $2. Whatever reason they may give for this line of policy, the people cannot be satisfied with the stultifying falsehoods of the Independent, whose whole endeavor is to jeer, throw dirt and otherwise cover up the truth. It has long since been an old trick, worn out years ago, for certain politicians to hold themselves in readiness to capture every boat that is launched and take the helm and bring the craft safely out on their side. I say this is getting old, and the party is badly sold that thinks this is a political breeze, or even intended for one, and for once they have shown their colors too soon. The Independent's offer to sacrifice every road supervisor in the county by shifting the whole blame on them, and its untruth (uttered ignorantly or otherwise) to screen the commissioners is a sample of what the intentions of the manipulators are, and the organ shows the wool in his teeth in that nice little game to hoodwink the people. It only shows an imbecility in the organ that is sickening to men who have the backbone to have an opinion of their own and to express themselves on matters of a public nature. Honesty would seem to dictate that the people be told honestly that there is no chance to reduce the taxes until our bridges are made good.

The first chapel of the Torres Straits and New Guinea mission was dedicated not long ago by the Rev J P Sunderland, the Australian agent of the London Missionary Society. The chapel is on Murray Island, and is a building 60 feet by 45. The natives of the island have all professed to embrace Christianity. They received Mr Sunderland and his party very hospitably, and gave them a large quantity of fruit on their departure.

A correspondent at Prineville, Wasco county, under date of Nov 1st, informs us that J H Snoderly was driving cattle at that place at the full speed of his horse, which fell down, and Mr Snoderly's leg and ankle were badly broken.

OREGON

The ball in the Grangers hall at Ashland, on the evening of the 28th ult, was a successful affair.

A car load of emigrants arrived at Roseburg last week. They are looking for homes in that section.

Rev H P Peck of St Louis, Mo, has arrived at Salem, and taken charge of the Presbyterian church at that place as pastor.

The late Jackson County Fair was not extensive nor a financial success. The receipts were $303 04, and the expenditures $269 36.

The Emeline Quicksilver Company, of Beaver creek, Southern Oregon, last week sent out its supply of provisions for the winter campaign.

We learn that a man named Connor, working in the woolen mills at Oregon City, was caught in the machinery in some way, last Friday, and had his leg broken.

A child of Wiley Parker, living a few miles from Jacksonville, was severely burned by its clothes catching fire from a fire burning near the house. Its recovery is thought to be doubtful.

A large number of fine hogs have been raised in Jackson county the present year, which are now fattening for the market. As a hog-raising section, Jackson county is unexcelled.

Gardner bids fair to be a lively place this winter. The arrival and departure of numerous schooners keeps up quite a buzz. The new steamer and schooner being built there will soon be ready to launch.

Scottsburg is coming out now. Two new buildings are in course of construction, together with sundry and various other improvements, which add to the beauty and substantial character of the town.

From the Plaindealer: Burton is his name, and he comes from Canyonville with a bad reputation. He was bound over in the sum of $250 for trying to carve the live body of Mr. Caldwell, a respectable citizen.

The following business was transacted at the Roseburg land office for the month of October: 800 acres sold for cash; 17 homestead entries, embracing 3,002 acres; 27 pre-emption filings; two donation certificates issued, one [illegible] application filed; one land warrant location of 160 acres.

The Mercury learns that, on Thursday of last week, a disturbance occurred at Jefferson which will probably afford some work for our next grand jury. Mr French, the city marshal, had been ordered to construct a sidewalk, and several persons endeavored to obstruct him in such construction. The marshal attempted to arrest Mr. Conser, one of the obstructors, who refused to be arrested, and made an assault on the marshal with a hatchet. No blood was shed, the marshal proceeded with his work and the excitement died away.

A correspondent of the Plaindealer, writing from Gardner, in Douglas county, under date of October 27th, says: Yesterday was the roughest day of the season, a heavy rain and violent wind storm prevailing. The cabin roof of the new steamer, not yet launched, was carried away. A raft of logs broke loose, and was only saved by the vigorous exertions of the mill hands. The pile driver was upset, and the donkey engine slid into the river. The new mill had to shut down. Fortunately the night hushed the storm, and this morning quiet reigns. The tug Fearless has been lying here about ten days, waiting to tow out half a dozen schooners, which are now ready for sea, but the bar is too rough to navigate to-day.

THE INTERCONVERTIBLES

Judge Kelly's interconvertible bond scheme has found an advocate in Oregon. A Salem paper thinks it furnishes the solution of the entire currency problem. But the Salem paper apparently does not perceive the difficulty in the way of making the interconvertibles a means of expanding the currency and therefore fails to suggest a way to obviate that difficulty. Suppose the government should adopt the interconvertible scheme, it would be ineffectual as a measure to increase the currency unless it were complemented by a large additional issue of greenbacks, for there would be nothing to convert the bonds into. Every conversion of currency into bonds, after the amount of greenbacks now authorized were taken up, would be a contraction instead of an expansion of the currency which could be avoided only by the government's issuing the greenbacks so contracted, in payment of its own expenses, and that would leave nothing in the treasury to meet the demand for a reconversion of the bonds in greenbacks. This scheme therefore necessarily implies the continued issuing of irredeemable paper or else it means that whenever anybody has a few thousands of greenbacks for which he has no immediate use the government will borrow them and pay interest on them but at the same time keep them lying idle in the treasury against the time when they shall be demanded again by the individual. That would be a very nice thing for the accumulation of greenbacks, but not quite so nice for the people at large who would have the interest account to pay.

NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILWAY LANDS

The following card has been forwarded by the Northern Pacific Railway Company to its bondholders

NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY }
PRESIDENT'S OFFICE 23 Fifth av N Y }
October 6 1875 }

Bonds of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company will until further notice be received at par for this company's lands in Minnesota and Dakota comprising several millions of acres. Receipts of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company of New York for surrendered bonds will be accepted in exchange for such lands, at the par of the preferred stock to which the holders are entitled. The current market price of these securities brings the cost of good lands to less than one dollar per acre.

The month of October is an excellent time to examine and select lands. Purchasers may have reductions of fare over this company's road on application at the St Paul office.

All inquiries respecting lands should be addressed to James B Power Esq, General Agent, Brainerd, Minnesota. Information can be obtained at this company's office in New York or St Paul, and at the office of G. D Barney & Co 114 South Third street Philadelphia, or at the office of Geo Wm Ballou, 72 Devonshire street, Boston.

The Trust Company's receipts offered in payment for lands must be first endorsed, with a certificate of the amount of preferred stock to which the holder is entitled, by the treasurer of this company, at No 23 Fifth avenue, New York to whom the receipts may be presented, or mailed, for that purpose.

C B. WRIGHT President.

The limitation of the right to exchange bonds for lands to Minnesota and Dakota gives much dissatisfaction to bondholders who desire to exchange their bonds for Washington Territory lands. These bondholders insist that the law making the grant of land to the company gives them the right to select any lands earned by the Company, and consequently that Company have no right to confine the selection to Minnesota and Dakota. We understand arrangements are making by Washington Territory bondholders to test the question of their rights in the courts.

LANDED ESTATES IN AMERICA

That America is not a good country for the building up of large landed estates, might be safely argued from the law of descents which prevails on this side of the Atlantic, and from the general disfavor with which all efforts to restrict the alienation of estates are regarded by American legislatures and courts. But some specific facts which we see stated in a late number of the New York Times, present the argument in quite as strong a light from the point of actual experience. That paper says:

A recent sale is reported of a very handsome house and expensive place visible to every traveler on the New Haven road which cost some $600 000 for the sum of $850 for taxes. The finest place on the upper Hudson the Montgomery Place the former property of the distinguished publicist Edward Livingston is said to have been offered for sale recently for eighteen or twenty thousand dollars. This estate was valued at at least $100 000. Its park and gardens and old woods and grand views of mountains and river are not surpassed in the United States. Another splendid property near by valued at $100 000, cannot be sold for its mortgages which are not large. One of the old Livingston manors on the Hudson has been offered lately for the value of the woods upon it. The most expensive country house in the State in the region back of Poughkeepsie it is said would not sell for the price of the magnificent columns which support its interior portico. On the lower Hudson a conservatory which cost $50 000 and whose flowers cost $20 000 is found to be such a burden that the widow of the owner is glad to sell the flowers for a trifling sum and leave the building unused.

The Times adds that these cases are not peculiar to the region about the Hudson. Similar cases are observed in all the old States, where expensive country seats have been built. A country that does not recognize primogeniture and frowns at the entailment of estates in lands will not do for those who think their happiness depends on the possession of vast reaches of forest and meadow and grand houses that are to be the family mansions of their posterity.

WRECK OF THE PACIFIC

Another old hulk has gone to pieces consigning a large number of persons to a grave in the sea. It is easy now to say that she was unseaworthy and that such a vessel should not have been permitted to carry passengers but how many of the passengers knew her condition before they went on board? Probably not one. They sailed with the same sense of danger as any who embark on the other [illegible] craft that navigate the seas. A rotten ship looks as well when she is painted and puttied up as a sound one. This is not the first vessel that has fallen to pieces on her way up or down the northwest coast. It will hardly be the last one. The common [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] brought [illegible] [illegible] loss of a [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] account by a distinct and unmistakable public sentiment for allowing such vessels to go to sea. It is time the traveling public were provided some means of knowing whether the steamers that invite them on board are seaworthy or are floating coffins. There is need of a Plimsoll in our Congress who will not stop with securing humane treatment to mariners in the merchant service, but will probe the subject of passenger carrying.

The dispatches from San Francisco say it is understood that the evidence in the Spaulding Pinney case which is not made public is of a very damaging character and will in all probability make it necessary to call a court martial. That is touching it up rather gingerly. Pinney got away with something like a million dollars upon checks purporting to have been drawn by Paymaster Spaulding and that officer if the published reports of the case are not at fault admits that many of these checks for which there was no consideration whatever, bore his genuine signature he having signed them leaving the amount blank and authorizing Pinney to fill it in. It is not possible that this could have been done without any suspicion on the part of Spaulding that there was something wrong unless he is so stupid that he ought to be cashiered for incapacity.

Now that the indictments against Tilton and Moulton have been voluntarily dismissed and the civil case of Tilton vs Beecher has been suffered to die it seems an unnatural method of administering justice for Becker and Price who were mere incidents to be prosecuted. Tilton and his crowd, or else Beecher and his crowd are guilty of precisely the same crime of which these two men are accused, and if they are to be let off because the interests of society demand that the scandal be ended—and that is the real ground of discontinuing the main cases—why should not the others be discharged also? There is no reason for prosecuting these obscure persons which does not apply with greater force, to the main cases.

Ordinarily it is a pleasant thing to feel certain those who have in charge the administration of public affairs know with some degree of certainty how they would like to run things. The case of Secretary Chandler, however, must be considered exceptionable. He is reputed to be unfolded as to what recommendation he will make touching the Indian bureau. This is a positive relief, as he has always been counted on the side of those who were in favor of turning the Indians over to the tender mercies of the army. No policy at all is a much better policy than that, so long as the tolerable system now in vogue can be retained. If the Secretary could only develop a policy which would attempt nothing but the perfecting of the present plan he would do an excellent service. But if he is to go from an imperfect system to one that is incapable of being so perfected as to be tolerable, the longer he remains ignorant of his own opinion on the subject the better.

"ARE YOU GOING TO PAINT?"

GILROY March 1 1875

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN. In an experience of three years with the Averill Chemical Paint more than one half the jobs have chalked peeled or cracked off notwithstanding the Paint was warranted to do neither and out of sixteen failures the California Chemical Paint Company have refused to furnish Paint to repaint but six of the sixteen. I refer to the following houses that have cracked peeled and chalked off in this place: James Corey H C Morey M D Thomas Darrough F J Bryant E H Farmer Frank Oldham J H Trickey G Woodward Thomas Rea P Ball D Whitney William Wilson J M Einfast F B Hitchcock J A Baxter Music Hall Catholic Church and I might mention many more.

J B. RHINEHART Painter

23 POST ST SAN FRANCISCO Sept 11, 1874.

To Proprietors Chemical Paint Company—Gents: I had my house in Oakland painted with your paint. It was warranted to be good and satisfactory in every respect. I was obliged to have the third coat put on to make it look as if it had been really painted and even then I think one good coat of Lead Paint would have given the house a better appearance. I think you ought to make up to me the loss I sustained besides the annoyance I felt knowing that an inferior article had been put on when a No 1 article had been promised. Hoping to hear from you soon on the subject, I remain,

Yours, resp'y DR HENRY KNOX

Dentist 23 Post street, San Francisco

GILROY Sept. 4 1875

To whom it may concern. Seeing in various papers that the California Chemical Paint Company continue to deceive people by saying that the Averill paint will neither peel crack nor chalk off I deem it my duty to say that my house, painted with the above named paint in the fall of 1873 failed in less than eighteen months after being painted by peeling cracking and chalking off in the worst manner imaginable. I also observe that the company have my name in their printed matter as reference; this was done without my knowledge or consent.

E J BRYANT

GILROY, March, 1875

To whom it may concern. My house, painted with the Averill Chemical Paint in June 1873 failed in a little over one year after being painted by chalking peeling washing and changing color, some light color some dark. The California Chemical Paint Company are knowing to this, and yet continue to deceive the public by saying that the Averill Paint will not peel crack nor chalk.

THOMAS DARROUGH

GILROY, Sept 4 1875

To whom it may concern. My house painted with the Averill Chemical Paint "manufactured by the California Chemical Paint Company" of San Francisco about two years ago failed in less than one year after it was painted by chalking off and changing color, and I had a portion of it repainted.

J B TRICKEY

GILROY Sept. 4, 1875

To whom it may concern. I had my fence painted in the fall of 1873 with the Averill Chemical Paint, which was represented not to chalk peel or crack off, but it chalked off in three months after it was painted.

The Best Paint in the World.

SAN JOSE Cal, March 20, 1875

Pacific Rubber Paint Company San Francisco—Gentlemen: I have used and sold the Rubber Paint in this city during the last four years. We have about one hundred buildings painted with the Rubber Paint. Among the prominent ones are the State Normal School Gates Institute City Market the residence of Josiah Belden, J W Hinds President Gold Note Bank J R Arquello Santa Clara etc. It has never failed to give satisfaction with a test of from one to four years, so that its durability has been well tested. My sales last year were nearly five thousand gallons.

Truly yours, AMASA EATON.

OAKLAND Cal, March 22, 1875

Pacific Rubber Paint Company—Gents: My real fence painted with the Rubber Paint about eight months ago so far has proved all you claim for it. It is as bright and beautiful as when finished.

Yours etc WALLACE EVERSON

SAN FRANCISCO March 2[illegible] 1875

Pacific Rubber Paint Company—Gentlemen: I have used your Rubber Paint on my yacht thus far the action of the water has had no effect upon it so far as my experience goes the Rubber Paint is the best paint I ever used for painting vessels especially in all water. It adheres firmly to the wood does not peel and retains its gloss.

CAPT EDWIN MOODY

ALVARADO Cal June 19 1875

Pacific Rubber Paint Company—Gents: We, the undersigned interested parties in the Odd Fellows Hall of this place feel it a duty as well as a pleasure to say to you that we are highly pleased not only with the appearance of the Rubber Paint on our hall, but think it at least twenty per cent cheaper than any paint we could have used and we also recommend it to all as superior to any other paint as regards its covering and spreading qualities.

AMUSEMENTS.

DRAMATIC READINGS —Masonic Hall was tolerably well filled last evening by a refined and cultivated audience, who assembled to listen to the dramatic readings and recitations of Miss Imogene Holbrook The young lady rendered in a very acceptable style a number of selections from the most eminent poets and prose writers of the past and present Miss Holbrook, as an elocutionist is by no means free from defects, but with all faults considered we pronounce her efforts very creditable, and calculated to amuse instruct and edify. She appears easy and graceful on the stage, and possessed of a rather handsome, expressive face, winning manners and a splendid physique Miss Holbrook does not fail to impress the audience in her favor Her voice is a shade husky—no doubt owing to a cold—but withal pleasant, musical and under admirable control. She rendered the letter scene from Macbeth in a manner eliciting hearty plaudits from an appreciative audience. The 'Baron's Last Banquet' 'Marc Antony's Oration' and 'Manliness' were eloquent efforts worthy of special mention, and the style in which they were delivered indicated true dramatic power of no mean order This evening Miss Holbrook will give her second and last reading before a Portland audience, when we hope to see an overflowing house A very excellent programme will be rendered Prof Bray's orchestra will furnish music between the recitations

THE STEAMSHIP PACIFIC.

The ill fated steamship Pacific that was lost at sea last Thursday evening about 40 miles from Cape Flattery the heart rending particulars of which appear in another column, was built at New York in the year 1851, by W H Brown and consequently was 24 years old By consulting American Lloyds for 1871, we find at that time the Pacific was commanded by Capt F C Schell At that date she was not surveyed and her class upon the Maritime Register was A 2 The Pacific was of 876 tons register with 17 feet draft She was built of oak and chestnut, and fastened with copper and iron bolts In 1870 the vessel was placed on the ways and remetaled For many years the Pacific was owned by the North Pacific Transportation Company, and formerly run on the line between San Francisco and Portland In the year 1862 the Pacific ran aground while coming up the Columbia river near Coffin Rock when it was discovered that the forward part of the vessel was quite rotten and not able to withstand a heavy shock However the steamer was temporarily repaired and continued to make regular trips Being considered unseaworthy the steamer was placed on the ways at San Francisco in 1869 overhauled and had new boilers 54x10 feet placed in She was then placed on the route between San Francisco and points along the southern coast of California and continued to run for several years Over a year ago the vessel was sold and for some time past has been running in Goodall Nelson & Co's line between San Francisco Victoria and Sound ports Her dimensions were Length 223 feet, beam 33½ feet, hold 17 feet and her model in the Lloyds is classed as M ' For a long time the steamer has not been considered a safe vessel to travel on but for some reason was permitted to run

THOSE LOST

Captain Jeff Howell was in command of the Pacific when she was lost, and shared a common fate with those who met a watery grave It will be remembered that Captain Howell was the individual who, some months ago left the steamship Los Angeles when that vessel was disabled off Tillamook Head and after encountering unnumbered perils reached the land and brought intelligence of the disaster to Astoria Formerly Captain Howell was first mate under Captain Connor on the Portland-San Francisco route He was a brother in law of Jefferson Davis ex president of the Southern Confederacy and was regarded as a brave and experienced seaman

Most of the passengers on board the Pacific were from Victoria and Puget Sound some of them are known in this city and a few have relatives residing here The first names which greet the eye are those of J Hellmuth and wife Mr Hellmuth has resided for some years near Walla Walla and, having acquired a handsome competence was on the way to Europe accompanied by his wife. Mrs Hellmuth is a daughter of Mrs Farg-Aly of this city Mr H C Victor husband of the talented authoress Mrs F F Victor who is at present sojourning in this city, was also on board Hon G T Vining formerly of Southern Oregon who has served in the legislature several terms from Douglas county and who was also a candidate for Secretary of State is among the lost He has resided for several years in Washington Territory Mr Fred D Hard, who formerly held the position of special postal agent for Washington Territory and was well known over this State also perished The passengers above named embarked on the ill fated steamer at Tacoma

Among those who sailed from Victoria we observe the following

Mr Francis Garesche, Wells Fargo & Co's agent at that place, and also a banker Mr G was a most excellent business man and a gentleman who was held in high esteem He had on board the steamer at the time about $500 000 in gold dust which he was taking to the mint at San Francisco

Miss Fannie Palmer the accomplished daughter of Mr Digby Palmer of Victoria, a well known musician This young lady was en route to her sisters in San Francisco, where she contemplated spending the winter

Mrs G W Lawson former wife of Hon G W Lawson, who was en route for the Golden city

Capt. Parsons, who is so well known all over the Sound particularly in shipping and commercial circles The captain was accompanied by his most estimable wife and both shared a common fate Recently Captain Parsons disposed of all his interests on the Sound and was on his way to San Francisco to permanently reside

Among the list appears the name of John Cochrane. There seems to exist an impression here that it is John Corcoran, who was a policeman for several years in this city Such we are inclined to believe is not the case The names are not spelled in the same way, and a letter was received a few days since from Mr Corcoran from Astoria dated Nov 2d, where he was then engaged at work.

Mr S P Moody who owns a large interest in the extensive lumbering mills at Burrard Inlet, is among the fated passengers He was a gentleman of great enterprise and his sad and untimely death will be a severe stroke to the milling interests of the whole Sound

Cal Mandeville and wife (Miss Bell Jefferson) both of whom are well known in dramatic circles and child are likewise among the lost Mr Mandeville was on the way below to seek an engagement

Messrs Rockwell & Hurlburt the great horse trainers, perished, together with the members of their company They had on board at the time the beautiful and wonderfully trained horse 'Mazeppa' the fleet-footed 'Mark Twain, the little filly Star" which was so universally admired and the two trick dogs not one of which escaped the remorseless sea Messrs Rockwell and Hurlburt were on the way to their home in Binghamton New York

Mr John Tarbell a prominent merchant of Victoria must be chronicled among the lost The evening contemporary states that Mr Tarbell is from Astoria, a son-in law of Mr. W H Gray, and brother in law of Mr Jacob Kamm, of this city Such is not the case Mr Frank Tarbell is the gentleman the reporter was thinking of who is a brother of John Tarbell

Other passengers who were on board and who lost their lives, are probably well known here and have relations and acquaintances, but we are unable to mention any more at present Details of to-day will probably enable us to give other names If possible the names of the steerage passengers will be obtained and published

THE FUTURE OF VIRGINIA CITY

From the Sacramento Record Union

Though Virginia City will be rebuilt as rapidly as possible as regards its mining requirements and the business incident to them it may be questioned whether it will recover anything like its former population at least for some time to come It is clearly evident that a considerable emigration must take place and probably of the class who have been connected with persons employed in the mines Hundreds of families now deprived of their homes will be compelled to seek shelter either in the other towns of Nevada or in California for the winter and with this departure will be withdrawn a large element of local retail trade The merchants who had laid in winter stocks of goods will suffer as severely as any for while their stocks are wholly destroyed the same disaster has deprived their city of the population which could alone have enabled them to recover their losses Under the circumstances therefore it seems probable that a marked contraction of both population and trade may be anticipated there and that probably until next spring the place will have to confine itself to traffic in strictly necessary material There can be no doubt that it will ultimately regain its former prosperity but the process of recovery will inevitably be slower than in ordinary cases of similar calamity

ALL SORTS OF HAIRS —I suppose you young sters think that all hairs are alike, except as to color but that is only because your eyes are not very sharp If your eyes were as sharp as a microscope you could tell from the tiniest slice of a hair whether it grew on a boy or a quadruped A human hair, I am told looks in that searching little instrument like a hollow tube quite transparent and marked with irregular lines around it On looking very closely these lines are seen to be the ends of separate surface coats or bark of the hair Think of your hairs having bark! This thin scaly covering is a fibrous stuff coming from the bulb where it begins to the point The color of the hairs is decided by the color of the fluid that fills this transparent tube A cat's hair looks under this prying instrument like the trunk of an old, rough palm tree while a bat's hair resembles flowers of trumpet shape stuck into each other to form a chain A bat from India has the trumpet shaped cups expanded very wide and notched on the edge. Hair from the head of a bee is pointed and set with short hairs standing straight out from the stem, and the hairs of a catterpillar are like stout horny rods drawn to a point and set with spines on each side This is very queer but there's another thing about it If the hairs of sheep, and other animals whose hair is used in manufactures had not rough scales which clasp and mat together they could not be made into felting That is what makes broadcloth and other woolen cloth so firm and strong —St Nicholas for September

HOW THE POETS WORK —Holmes is so full that he can write at any time Lowell broods over his subject for a time and then composes with great swiftness He does not like to write to order though desirous of employing the stimulus of great occasions We asked him to read a poem at Concord on the one hundredth anniversary of the fight but he said he could not His wife a day or two before wrote to me saying "I cannot speak for James yet I think you may expect a poem from him on the 19th He has been going about for some time in that peculiar way which is promise of something" and on the 19th Lowell was on the ground with his poem —and a grand one it was Longfellow prepares his poems to be read on any great occasion as a minister who lives near Boston prepares his sermons nearly a year ahead He wrote the poem read at Bowdoin college last summer early in the fall of the preceding year and well it was he did so, for the months intervening have been fruitless as far as literary labor is concerned owing to physical prostration He is, happily better now —From an interview with Emerson in the Concord Monitor.

Dragging Out Existence.

The nervous weakly Invalid does not enjoy life but merely drags out existence as the phrase is Unfitted for the active pursuits of life and incapable of partaking of its pleasures to which health alone can give a zest disinclined to social intercourse and a prey to melancholy, the valetudinarian is indeed an object of pity. Yet there is nothing in all this that cannot be remedied by that genial alterative tonic and nervine, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters which supplies stamina braces the nervous system and overcomes those bodily irregularities of which nervous weakness is most frequently attributable Diseases of the kidney and bladder imperfect digestion and uterine troubles are fertile sources of debility their eradication however becomes a matter of certainty when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are systematically used for that purpose The Bitters likewise annul the and prevent fever and ague and other debilitating febrile complaints of a malarial nature.

A GREAT IRON CHIMNEY.

THE TALL OBSERVATORY ON BELMONT HILL.

(From the Philadelphia Times.)

On the summit of Belmont Hill more than half a mile from the Centennial building is a tall slender tower surmounted by a wire cage from which protrudes a flag staff. This is one of the many private enterprises that have been brought to Philadelphia by the Centennial, and it is one of the most costly and ornamental of them all. It is built of expensive boiler iron and it can be seen from almost any part of the Exhibition grounds. It is a Sawyer Improved Observatory, built by the Sawyer Improved Observatory Company of Boston and is the first one that has ever been put up. The main shaft 300 feet high and 8 feet in diameter at the bottom, tapering to 3 feet at the top, is a hollow iron tube built just like a steam boiler except that the edge of each plate rests on the edge of the plate immediately below it instead of overlapping, thus throwing the weight directly on the plates instead of upon the rivets. A strong stone foundation was first built to which ten cast iron supports were bolted, and on these supports the bottom of the shaft rests securely bolted to its place. At the top of the shaft is a platform about twenty feet in diameter surrounded by a strong iron railing and covered with a wire netting to prevent persons from falling or jumping off. A car runs from the top to the bottom to carry passengers. It is raised and lowered by eight steel wire cables and is prevented from falling should the cables give way by steel clamps acting on perpendicular rails which will immediately stop the car and hold it in position. The shaft is stayed by eight wire cables firmly set in masonry. The car will carry about forty passengers comfortably and the platform on top of the shaft will hold about 125.

ORIGIN AND SECRECY OF INVENTIONS.—A century ago what a man discovered in the arts he concealed. Workmen were put upon oath never to reveal the process used by their employers. Doors were kept closed, visitors were rigorously excluded from admission and false operations blinded workmen themselves. The mysteries of every craft were hedged in by thick fences of empirical pretensions and judicial affirmation. The royal manufactories of porcelain for example were carried on in Europe with a spirit of jealous exclusiveness. His majesty of Saxony was especially circumspect. Not content with the oath of secrecy imposed upon his people, he would not abate his kingly suspicion in favor of a brother monarch. Neither king nor king's delegates might enter the tabooed walls of Meissen. What is erroneously called the Dresden porcelain—that exquisite pottery of which the world never saw the like—was manufactured for 200 years by a process so secret that neither the bribery of princes nor the garrulity of the operatives never revealed it. Other discoveries have been less successfully guarded fortunately for the world. The manufacture of tinware in Europe originated in a stolen secret. Few readers need to be informed that tinware is simply thin iron plated with tin by being dipped into the molten metal. In theory it is an easy matter to clean the surface of iron dip it into a bath of the boiling tin and remove it enveloped with the silvery metal to a place for cooling. In practice, however the process is one of the most difficult in the arts. It was discovered in Holland and guarded from publicity with the utmost vigilance for nearly half a century. England tried in vain to discover the secret, until James Sherman a Cornish miner, crossed the channel, insinuated himself master of the secret, and brought it home. The secret of manufacturing cast steel was also stealthily obtained, and is now within the reach of all artisans.

Ex Secretary McCulloch's plan for placing the currency system on a sound basis is simply the redemption of the legal tenders by funding them in a gold bond bearing 4½ ₩ cent interest, and the prospective repeal of the legal tender act. Such a measure, Mr McCulloch thinks would soon bring our finances out upon a solid basis, and open the way to an easy resumption of coin payments at no distant day.

The first business day of the week is not usually a very brisk one and to day has not been an exception to the rule though there was some movement in financial quarters indicating a readiness on the part of moneyed institutions to respond freely to the calls of their regular customers but to hold their funds aloof from all purely speculative investments. The capital of the country is required to make the successful movement of the crops and sustain the legitimate trade, and the eagerness with which some men are putting their money into stocks and other semi gambling investments is proving a matter which more seriously affects the ordinary operations in trade than many people are aware of. This speculation in stocks is more especially confined to California, but its influence is felt in this market, and so far during the present season it has been productive of little actual good, and to it may possibly be attributed a very important part of the financial disasters that have proved such great drawbacks to the commercial interests of the Pacific coast.

The relative proportion of gold, silver and paper in circulation in France, England and Germany is shown in the following statement:

	Silver	Gold	Paper
France	$300 000 000	$800 000 000	$542 958,801
Germany	480 000 000	206 000 000	210,207 408
England	60 000,000	500 000 000	209 000 000
Total	$840 000 000	$1 506 000,000	$9[illegible]3,161,209

An exchange says France has been for some time coining silver at the rate of $25 000 000 per annum or about the Nevada production. Austria and Russia are also large buyers, while Germany is the seller, having but one standard, that of gold. France had $1,700 000,000 of the precious metals after paying Germany $1 000 000,000 indemnity. The United States borrowed abroad $1,500 000,000 and had only 10 per cent of the specie held by France.

Trade Matters

Have improved somewhat in the opening of the season's business, and the volume of transactions has gradually increased as facilities for inland transportation have become better. The distributive trade of this market is undoubtedly more extensive than it was last year and our wholesale and jobbing houses are doing a very fair business with buyers from the interior, who are in the market in considerable numbers filling their stocks for the winter trade. The stocks of imported merchandise in the market are large and such are the relations of the trade here that but few buyers from the interior find it profitable to proceed to San Francisco after investigating the market here.

In the matter of domestic produce the market shows a good deal of activity with no special changes in prices since our last quotations. The decline in wheat noticed in our San Francisco dispatches of last Saturday has something of a depressing influence on this market and few who are not prompted to it by actual necessity for the purpose of loading vessels at hand or due care to purchase large quantities as a speculation. The upper Wallamet being still at a good boating stage the river steamers are all engaged and find plenty of business. The O S N Co is bringing down about 700 tons of wheat per week from Walla Walla and Eastern Oregon and the east side railroad is also running large trains daily bringing to this port near 1 000 tons per week. The foreign vessels now in port will have quick dispatch.

Marine Disaster.

Although not plying directly to this port the news of the loss of the steamer Pacific created a profound sensation in this city. The Pacific was built in New York in 1851 by W H Brown and has since been run on various routes on the Pacific. She was a side wheeler with vertical engines and registered 876 tons. The terrible calamity to her passengers is detailed elsewhere and as yet we have no means of knowing what her cargo consisted of. It is presumed that she had considerable treasure aboard as a number of her passengers were miners just down from Cassiar. Her loss is another warning to the people against some of the old hulks that are run as passenger carriers on the Pacific coast.

Miscellaneous.

A San Francisco paper says: A parcel of some 80,000 pounds of new crop cotton from Colonel Strong's ranch on the Merced river, has been received. It is of superior quality and one of the best ever offered in this market. The lot is held at 18c ₩ lb. The production in this State this year will be small and it is probable that nearly the entire product will be taken by local manufacturers.

Dividends of San Francisco corporations disbursed in October aggregate $1 481 430, of which amount $1 170 000 was distributed by mining companies $[illegible] by gas and water companies $[illegible] by banks $63 500 by insurance companies $7 [illegible] by street railroad companies and $[illegible] by miscellaneous companies. [illegible] amounted to $1 [illegible].

The quarterly report of the collector of the port of Honolulu shows that the total amount of sugar exported in the third quarter of 1875 aggregated [illegible] pounds, compared with a corresponding period last year and a decrease of [illegible] pounds in the 9 months compared with the same time in 1874. Of other leading articles of export rice shows an increase of 8[illegible] pounds in the third quarter and an increase of 2 [illegible] pounds in the nine months compared with similar periods in 1874. Paddy, coffee, bananas, hides and peanuts show an increase in both periods.

The movement of the Oregon wheat crop so far indicates that former estimates as to the surplus were none too high and that should the markets almost justify the clearing out fully 110 000 tons will be shipped during the year.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship Ajax from San Francisco will be due to-morrow night.

The steamship California sailed from Victoria for this port on Sunday morning and is about due.

The British ship Cricedale chartered to load wheat, is in the river and may arrive to night.

The schooner Kate F Heron reported at Astoria from Tillamook on the 3d has not yet put in an appearance here.

Ayer's Ague Cure

FOR THE SPEEDY RELIEF OF

Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic [illegible]

℞ Has been widely used during the last twenty five years, in the treatment of these diseases, and with such unvarying success that it has gained the reputation of being infallible. The shakes, or chills once broken by it, do not return until the disease is contracted again. This has made it an accepted remedy, and trusted specific for the Fever and Ague of the West, and the Chills and Fever of the South.

Ayer's Ague Cure eradicates the poison from the system and leaves the patient as well as before the attack. It thoroughly expels it, so that no Liver Complaints, Rheumatism, Neuralgia Dysentery or Debility follow the cure. Indeed where Disorders of the Liver and Bowels have occurred from Miasmatic Poison it removes the cause of them and they disappear. Not only is it an effectual cure, but if taken occasionally by patients exposed to malaria it will expel the poison and protect them from attack. Travelers and temporary residents in Fever and Ague localities are thus enabled to defy the disease. The [illegible] which is so apt to ensue from continued exposure to Malaria and Miasm has no speedier remedy.

For Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy.
